SUMMARY

The most comprehensive Angola tour ever was a resounding success. Among the 577 species logged were all AviList endemics, plus a host of newly-available specials such as Grimwood's Longclaw, Congo Moor Chat, Chestnut-mantled Sparrow-Weaver and Dambo Cisticola. It was the first birding tour, ever, to target the distinctive Black-tailed Cisticola, now seen by three times more people than prior to this trip! And we even saw the soon-to-be-described Bateke Plateau Cisticola.

We set off south from Luanda through the coastal wetlands of Mussulo and the Kwanza River, before arriving on the endemic-rich central escarpment. Pulitzer's Longbill fell on the first afternoon of the trip, and the next morning Gabela Akalat and Gabela Bushshrike followed, with Pale-throated Barbet, Red-crested Turaco and Monteiro's Bushshrike seen too. Climbing into the Huambo highlands we logged various miombo species alongside Bocage's Weaver, Bocage's Sunbird and Brazza's Martin. Mount Moco delivered to goods with Swierstra's Francolin, Black-chinned Weaver and Angola Slaty Flycatcher, before we detoured east through Cubango province to Lubango. Here highlights included Grimwood's Longclaw, the distinctive race of Streaky-headed Seedeater (Benguela Seedeater), Congo Moor Chat, Dambo Cisticola, Locust Finch, Dickinson's Kestrel, Miombo Pied Barbet and Chestnut-mantled Sparrow-Weaver. Tundavala added Finsch's Francolin and Rockrunner, before a loop through the coastal deserts added Cinderella Waxbill and Ruppell's Korhaan, alongside many southern African species. Heading north again we paused in the Muxima area for Grey-striped Francolin, White-fronted Wattle-eye and Gabela Helmetshrike. On the northern scarp we found White-collared Oliveback, Angola White-throated Greenbul and Braun's Bushshrike, before the Kalandula area rewarded us with White-headed Robin-Chat, Bannerman's Sunbird and Thick-billed Cuckoo. Finally, as a new addition to our Angola tour we visited the north-eastern Lunda provinces, where new birds included displaying Dusky Lark, Bateke Plateau Cisticola and the first ever sighting of Black-tailed Cisticola on a birding tour.
